

Outdoor Precision Pistol 2700 Results March 18, 2023

Wow, I had forgotten how much work it takes to do the scoring for so many shooters!

Still, it is about the best problem I can think of to have nearly a full line!

I hope everyone enjoyed the day. We had a cold start, but eventually nice weather to start off the season.

I am also glad to have had a good handful of new shooters join us for outdoor pistol fun, a couple new guests and a couple of our members that got into the sport for the winter season.

I am going to have to look for some better callers because that guy we had calling did have one range alibi.

I thought I should mention a couple of scoring quirks; I use color coding to make it easier to spot shooters that will end up in different classes like "Iron Sights" or "22 only". Also realize that the "PL" (place) column is color coded by the type of arm in use unless there is a class exception for a particular shooter.

The assignment of "place" includes the 1st and 2nd place in each class and the overall aggregate match winner hence 1,2 or W. There is an algorithm that assigns places (which keeps me from making mistakes and screwing up the place assignments), but there are some classes like "22only" or "2 handed" that need manual corrections for fairness' sake. I don't want to have a 2 handed shooter beating an Iron Sight one handed shooter for example.

Big congratulations to Chris for his overall match win at 2480-68x! Right behind Chris was Simone and Bev almost tying for second place at 2433 and 2428 respectively. I think this suggests an impressive grudge match in June when Chris tries to take the Club Championship from Simone! Best of luck to both.

We also had a great turnout for the Reeves revolver match, 8 shooters! I don't think I have ever seen that many on the line. Chris did well here as well with a 225-2x, but Allen owned the match with a 266-7x followed by Craig with a 248-2x (not bad for a Navy shooter who probably never got to see a revolver while on the team).

Again, it was great to see everyone and nearly fill the line to start off the season! Hope to see you all and a few more next month.
